Comment Suggestion
Kevin taught a really insightful class with an excellent selection of papers.

This is an excellent course, surveying three vibrant areas of research in econ theory, as well as some related experimental papers. Kevin is a clear and engaging presenter, and cares a lot about keeping students actively involved in the learning process via in-class and offline discussions. Definitely recommend to whoever is interested in pursuing econ research.

Comment Suggestion

The course is well organized and gives us a complete understanding to learning and information literature. Kevin is so nice and gives us much encouragement in starting our own research

This is one of the best courses I have ever taken. Kevin really does a great job in explaining the models and how they contributed in the development of the subject. Moreover, the course is extremely well structured and organized.

Amazing professor, smart way of evaluating and super clear to explain hard concepts

Comment Suggestion   I really enjoyed this course, Kevin covered a wide variety of topics in the space of learning literature and I came away with a much better understanding of the state of the subfield and existing literature. It was especially helpful to be exposed to both "classic" papers in the space and very new ones.
