He is smart, nice, witty, and he creates amazing section notes. He was a fantastic TF and I was really glad to be in his section.

Kevin taught the theory of the course in the section to supplement the lectures perfectly well. He did an incredible job. I just wish he had an extra half an hour where we only did practice problems on the material just learned to better prepare us for the homework which would ideally better prepare us for the midterms/final.

Kevin is absolutely amazing. I am convinced he saved me in this class. His section made everything make at least some sense and all of the section notes he made were absolutely indispensable!

Kevin is far and away the best TF I've ever had. His commitment, intelligence and knowledge are outstanding. In particular, Kevin's section notes made the course much easier to follow, and his responses and Piazza made the problem sets and projects much more comprehensible. Also, his detail in grading the final modeling project was quite impressive. Thank you, Kevin!

One of the best TFs I've had--Kevin is not only brilliant at the subject matter, but it also showed how much effort he put in to making sure that everyone understood the content and how often he would go the extra mile to answer any question. And his section notes were incomparably great.

Kevin was by far the most helpful TF in the course. He provided extremely detailed explanations, and I never felt intimidated to ask him seemingly trivial questions. Kevin also spent a lot of time creating review sheets for us, which was a huge help for the midterm and final.

Kevin is the most responsible and hardworking TF I've ever seen.

It has to be said, Kevin is largely responsible for salvaging the class from a complete lack of coordination over what material is taught and how. I cannot emphasize enough how thankful I am for his limited use of ambiguous notation (which abounds in econ, as I discovered), and for his very useful lecture notes and summaries. Kevin's section were clear and well structured, which was certainly not a given in this class. Overall his effort and role in the success of the class were very tangible, and I am very thankful for it.

I honestly think this class would have been an absolute wreck without Kevin. The amount of quality time he put into this class was astounding. He should be commended.

Kevin is a terrific TF, who clearly put countless hours of work into this course. The section notes are a life saver, expounding on topics that would otherwise be difficult to understand. Helped me a lot over the course of this semester.

The only salvation amongst this sinking ship of a class. Clearly cared about students. I'm really thankful for how active he was on Piazza. My favorite was when William answered a question horribly and Kevin had to tack on a comment that actually answered the question. The only time I actually felt like I learned in the class was on the third project. Kevin actually gave us a roadmap to follow, and while it was difficult, it actually made sense and we were able to follow it and we did well. This was the only such example of this logical teaching/learning process this semester.

One of the best TFs I have had at Harvard. Dedicates a lot of time to teaching students, answering questions on Piazza and via email, and being generally very considerate of students' learning. He definitely knows how students learn best and is very patient. Good luck in grad school. You would be a great professor!

He wasn't my TF, but I was very impressed with this guy. He would be awake at 3 in the morning answering questions online, he worked pretty hard to get our assignments back to us quickly (I'm thinking of our last assignment before the final in particular), he wrote up really good review sheets for our midterm and exam, just worked really hard for the class in general. He also seemed like a really fair grader: on our last modeling project, he told us to put our Harvard ID numbers on our submissions instead of our names, which definitely made his job harder but also ensured fair grading.
